

We're seeing a subtle shift in tone from key Fed officials, yet Fed Chair Jerome Powell may be gone soon.

---

Stocks have rebounded since Trump's tariff backpadding and concessions. But there are still signs of strain in the bond market.

---

Tariffs are once again thrust into the spotlight.. However, there is a silver lining: Bond market volatility is not showing signs of stress

---

"Europe is at a crossroads and must embrace reform to revitalize its economic prospects and Making Europe Great Again (MEGA)"

---

As MAGA returns to Washington, should President Trump advocate for more tariff or smaller Government?