“To some extent, though, it should not come as a surprise if you have been looking at last six months’ data. So, the PPI number has been negative for at least three or four months now and this is just confirming things that we have discussed in the past,” says Manish Singh, Crossbridge Capital.

Read full article from The Economic Times

© 2026 Crossbridge Capital. All rights reserved.
This material is provided for informational purposes only and does not constitute investment advice.